1 DISCUSSION

2 A. Defendants' Motion to Set Aside Default

3 Defendants move to set aside the Default entered by the Clerk of the U.S.
4 District Court for the Southern District of California prior to the transfer of the 5 case to this Court (ECF No. 9). Motions to set aside default are governed by 6 Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 55(c). The rule provides that entry of default may 7 be set aside upon a showing of "good cause." In determining whether good cause 8 has been shown, a district court must consider (1) whether the default resulted 9 from culpable conduct on the part of the defendant; (2) whether the defendant has a 10 meritorious defense; and (3) whether the plaintiff would be prejudiced by setting 11 aside the default. TCI Grp. Life Ins. Plan v. Knoebber, 244 F.3d 691, 696 (9th Cir.
12 2001). "To be prejudicial, the setting aside of a [default] must result in greater 13 harm than simply delaying resolution of the case." Id. at 701. When a motion to 14 set aside a default is filed prior to the entry of default judgment, the district court 15 has "especially broad" discretion in deciding whether to grant relief. Brady v.
16 United States, 211 F.3d 499, 504 (9th Cir. 2000).

17 The Court finds that Defendants have established good cause to set aside the 18 default. As a threshold matter, Defendants, as pro se litigants, are entitled to a 19 more relaxed application of Rule 55(c)'s good cause requirement than represented
20 parties. See United States v. Signed Personal Check No. 730 of Yubran S. Mesle,

1 615 F.3d 1085, 1089 (9th Cir. 2010) (“Our rules for determining when a default
2 should be set aside are solicitous towards movants, especially those whose actions 3 leading to the default were taken without the benefit of legal representation.”).

4       Turning to the first of the three factors identified above, there is no credible
5 evidence that the default resulted from culpable conduct. A defendant’s conduct 6 may be deemed “culpable” only if he has “received actual or constructive notice of 7 the filing of the action and intentionally failed to answer.” Mesle, 615 F.3d at 1092 8 (emphasis in original). As the Ninth Circuit explained in Mesle, “a movant cannot 9 be treated as culpable simply for having made a conscious choice not to answer;
10 rather, to treat a failure to answer as culpable, the movant must have acted with bad 11 faith, such as an intention to take advantage of the opposing party, interfere with 12 judicial decisionmaking, or otherwise manipulate the legal process.” Id. (quotation 13 and citation omitted). Thus, a failure to answer cannot defeat a showing of good 14 cause under Rule 55(c) unless there is evidence that the defendant acted deviously, 15 deliberately, willfully or in bad faith. Id. Notwithstanding the accusations leveled 16 against Defendants in Plaintiff’s response, see ECF No. 32, the Court finds that 17 Defendants’ failure to respond was the product of simple excusable neglect rather 18 than an attempt to deliberately manipulate the legal system.

19       It further appears that Defendants have meritorious defenses to Plaintiff’s 20 claims. In documents which the Court construes as proposed answers to the

1 complaint (ECF Nos. 28 and 35), Defendants dispute the amount owed on the 2 subject loan and appear to contest whether they are personally obligated to repay it.
3 Defendants also assert several potentially meritorious affirmative defenses, 4 including a statute of limitations defense. This factor weighs in Defendants' favor.

5 Finally, Plaintiff would not be prejudiced by an order setting aside the 6 default. As noted above, “the setting aside of a [default] must result in greater 7 harm than simply delaying resolution of the case.” TCI Grp., 244 F.3d at 696.
8 “Rather, the standard is whether [the] plaintiff’s ability to pursue his claim will be 9 hindered.” Id. (quotation and citation omitted). The present record reflects that 10 Plaintiff’s ability to pursue his claims will not be hindered by an order setting aside 11 the default. Indeed, the only prejudice Plaintiff has identified is that Defendants’ 12 failure to file a timely answer has made it “increasingly less likely he will ever be 13 able to recover a close relationship with his parents.” ECF No. 32 at 8. This self-14 serving assertion is insufficient to overcome the strong policy favoring resolution 15 of claims on the merits. See Mesle, 615 F.3d at 1091 (“[J]udgment by default is a 16 drastic step appropriate only in extreme circumstances; a case should, whenever 17 possible, be decided on the merits.”) (quotation and citation omitted). In view of 18 the foregoing, Defendants’ motion to set aside the default is granted.

1       The answer filed by Defendant Darleen Ames at ECF No. 28, and the 2 amended answer filed by Defendant Randall Ames at ECF No. 35, are accepted as 3 filed.

4       B. Plaintiff's Motion for Default Judgment

5       Based upon the foregoing ruling setting aside the default against both 6 Defendants, Plaintiff's motion for default judgment is denied as moot.

7       C. Plaintiff's "Motion for Declaration of Controlling Law"

8       Plaintiff has moved for an order declaring that "this action is controlled by 9 California substantive law, including the availability of punitive damages." ECF 10 No. 25 at 1. Defendants filed a response indicating that they do not oppose the 11 motion. ECF No. 29. Accordingly, the motion is granted.

12     IT IS HEREBY ORDERED:

13      1. Defendants' motion to vacate order of default (ECF No. 30) is 14           GRANTED. The Default entered at ECF No. 9 is hereby STRICKEN.

15       The answer filed by Defendant Darleen Ames at ECF No. 28, and the 16 amended answer filed by Defendant Randall Ames at ECF No. 35, are 17 accepted as filed.

18      2. Plaintiff's motion for entry of default judgment (ECF No. 22) is 19           DENIED.

1       3. Plaintiff's "Motion for Declaration of Controlling Law" (ECF No. 25) is 2                   GRANTED.
